LETTER FROM FOUNDER – CARLA GEYSER

As I sit here writing this report, I cannot help but think we have all been transported to an alternative reality. I have such gratitude for the fact that I am healthy, still afloat and was able to create some of the most exciting projects in 2020, that I have ever done.

I started 2020 filled with such vigor, enthusiasm and neatly laid out plans … I had 2020 in the bank! I was knocked flat on my feet at the pace and intensity of the changes that were coming at us daily, the closure of borders, the inability to work closely and easily with my networks, even coffee meetings were a thing of the past. It took a while for me to assimilate the ongoing influx of news, regulations, daily stats of infections. I felt like the ground beneath my feet had turned to lava, it was uncomfortable, ever shifting and forged its own path forward regardless of the Plans that I had so enthusiastically and meticulously laid out for the year.

It was a year that taught me Courage, tested my ability to Hope and made me realise how much I Love the work that Blue Sky Society Trust does. If I was battling to steady myself during this time, how were those less fortunate than I going to manage. How would the conservation projects maintain sufficient funding to fight the good fight? I knew that regardless of how the way of working had changed, I could not let my projects and platforms down when they needed us more than ever.

"I see trees of green, red roses too, I see them bloom for me and you, and I think to myself… What a Wonderful World"… Louis Armstrong.

I state this every year in my report, but never has it been more relevant. WITHOUT the support and funding from Sponsors, Fundraising projects, Corporate Funding, and the incredible people that are always available to offer advice and collaborations, I would not have achieved what I did in 2020. I would like to thank each and everyone of you who stand beside me in this incredible journey called life.

Ending 2020 with a Global Award for most Innovative Fundraiser for my Virtual Elephant Collaring event, I move into 2021 with greater vision, more Courage to expand our Global Footprint, an increased level of Hope for our Projects and a heart full of Love not only for what we do but for humanity in general.

I have recently launched a Closed Group on Face Book under the Blue Sky Society Trust to bring like-minded people together to expediate the growth in our donation base, and to offer a platform for fresh, innovative ideas and solution sharing. This is an exciting addition to our existing platforms, and I hope to engage some of the best strategic and creative thought leaders in the conservation and fundraising sectors through this.

My wish for 2021 is to work more closely with each and everyone of you, to grow my funding network so we can achieve more, and to spread the message of Courage, Hope & Love across the globe.

Kind Regards,
Carla Geyser

FINANCIAL SUMMARY

Last year was not a great year for BSST as many companies worldwide, during Covid 19 times we had to cancel all of our 2020/2021 JWP Expeditions fundraisers. The company ran at a loss. We did however manage to raise funds for various conservation groups and continue with projects in harsh devastating conditions. Details to follow in the Projects section below.

A Copy of our AFS can be sent on request. Please email carla@blueskysociety.co.za
Our Accountants remain Accumin who do the monthly accounts and Annual Financials. We truly hope 2021 will be a better year ahead for all.

We have a handful of loyal local and international donors and corporates that we work with and hope to grow this in the years to come. There is still so much to do. But we cannot do this alone. We are looking to increase our e-commerce sales and also to encourage regular monthly donors for our projects.

BSST PROJECTS 2020

HUMANITARIAN PROJECT SOUL2SOLE

Now in its 6th year, Soul2Sole2020 brought a smile to the faces of nearly 4000 children from poverty-stricken and underfunded areas in KwaZulu-Natal. Gifting them with donated & previously loved School Shoes, Socks and Lion Quality shoe polish to the value of more than R360 000.00. Even the challenges of Covid 19 lock down didn't stop us from continuing this amazing project. 3641 pairs of new and previously worn shoes were distributed to little feet in the Transkei, Durban, Zululand and the Babanango Valley area in KZN during Soul2Sole2020.

"The joy that we see on the faces of the kids receiving the shoes, is the same joy that we see on the faces of the kids who are able to donate their school shoes. The sense of pride and happiness that they have when they line their school shoes up and walk out of the school gates is not just because it's the end of the school year" says Carla Geyser, founder of the project.

The Lion Match Company purchased 1400 pairs of new school shoes to add to the figure of 2241 previously loved shoes donated by schoolchildren across KwaZulu-Natal. Aramex South Africa sponsored transportation costs, and assisted with the collection, storage and distribution of the shoes, while Blue Sky Society facilitated the entire process, tapping into its on-the-ground network to ensure that the shoes went to deserving schools. We had a total of 16 schools collecting for us in 2019. We also work closely with Partners4Possibilites to distribute to deserving schools. We got media exposure for this project in local newspapers and across all Social Media Platforms.

2019 SHOE COLLECTION STATS:

We are truly grateful to our school partners who collect and support the Soul2sole project, we could not do this without their support on break-up day.

Due to Covid regulations and the fact that many children had to continue and complete their school year from home, we did things a little bit differently in terms of collection of the shoes this year. We were very appreciative to partner with Eastmans Spar in Glenashley as the drop-off and collection point for shoes, on the 15th December 2020.
Our Sponsors Lion Match and Aramex joined the Soul2Sole team, with their staff and vans, to assist in the collection and packaging of all donated school shoes and sports shoes. We will be counting, sorting, and distributing the shoes in 2020.

CONSERVATION PROJECTS

COLLARING ELEPHANTS WITH ELEPHANTS ALIVE – 5TH MARCH 2020

On Thursday 5th March 2020, we took a small crew of passionate individuals to the Phalaborwa area (South Africa) to work alongside the phenomenal teams from Elephants Alive and Wildlife Vets. Some were crew from previous expeditions – Elephant Ignite Expedition in 2016 and Rise of the Matriarch in 2018.

The monies raised, a total of R175 000-00, allowed us to successfully collar two elephants. The Blue Sky Society Trust team's fundraising efforts covered the cost of the helicopter and the wildlife vets for the collaring operation.

Our first collar was an exceptionally handsome 35-year old Bull Elephant named "Henrick" who had been collared by Elephants Alive before. The second one, a gorgeous cow from a breeding herd, ceremoniously named "Tangles" after the Tanglewood Foundation that so generously sponsored the two collars. Ngibona kakhulu to Tanglewood's Peter Eastwood for his constant generosity and for playing such a huge part in this all.

VIRTUAL ELEPHANT COLLARING – 8TH AUGUST 2020

On Saturday, 8 August, we conducted a world-first for conservation: a virtual elephant collaring in Hoedspruit, South Africa. The world may be in lockdown, but the work of wildlife conservationists still needs to go ahead. For the first time, we took the live action to locked-down wildlife lovers all over the world, who were able to watch an adrenalin-fueled elephant collaring operation as it unfolded, from the safety and comfort of their homes. Some 250 - 300 viewers from around the world logged in to watch this incredible experience.

As an NPO, Blue Sky Society Trust has been working with Elephants Alive since 2016. With COVID-19 hammering travel and tourism, Blue Sky founder, Carla Geyser, came up with the incredible concept to virtually connect elephant lovers across the planet to the excitement of the on-the-ground operation. Through collaborative efforts, the organisations turned the concept into reality with the help of wildlife vets (Dr Joel Alves) and Painted Dog TV (Brent Leo-Smith).

Mobilising modern technology, we were able to live stream the collaring operation from the middle of the bushveld, raising critically needed funds and awareness in the process. This collaring operation raised R250 000-00, enough for two new elephant collars for our magnificent Bulls, General and Proud. We were also able to mend a broken collar for, Gower, on the same day. The live broadcast technology was provided by Painted Dog TV, whose team had to construct a makeshift satellite dish, with the help of Letaba wireless internet, to bounce the signal off the nearest tower which was between 45 and 57km away. It was not an easy task and at times we did lose signal. When signal to the collaring site was lost, Carla and one of the crew were able to chat and engage with the viewers to explain what was going on and took the opportunity to answer some of the questions the viewers had. It was an incredible experience to be sitting in the bush, kilometres away from civilisation and engage with a guest who was sitting in the UK.

Our gratitude goes out to every person who tuned in or donated or who shared our story on social media. There are so many role-players to thank. Overall, a fantastic team effort – and an important reminder that in these crazy times, we are more powerful when we work together! Elephants Alive has collared 185 animals and can individually identify more than 2 000 elephants from their tusk and ear patterns by recording features like ear tears, notches, and holes as well as tusk shape. This work has provided a unique insight into the social bonds, breeding behavior and movements over time of these amazing animals.

Elephant collars provide critical scientific information, helping the organisation understand their movements in response to safety, sex, food, and water. The data also maps 'fear-landscapes' i.e. the areas elephants are avoiding. This remote tracking detects if a collar stops moving, if it is too close to villages or if it is moving at unusual speeds – all of which could indicate a potential poaching event. The collars provide real-time data so rangers or a response team can investigate.

The collars help mapping incredible journeys: between countries; between herds.
These movements also show how important safe corridors are between the reserves, and how protected areas need to incorporate a much wider landscape to do justice to the potential home range of an elephant.

INNOVATOR OF THE YEAR AWARD

The Virtual Elephant Collaring event saw Carla Geyser being nominated and winning the "Global Innovator of the Year Award". Hosted by Resource Alliance Global, she was up against the final contenders from OXFAM & SHENEMA. This award has catapulted her into Global Networking platforms around the world. Her ability since winning the Award, to give existing and future Sponsors, Donors and Travel Partnerships greater exposure for the work they do, is exponential.

The Resource Alliance Global Programmes and Partnerships director Sarah Scarth said the 2020 Awards recognised Innovator Fund-Raisers and Change-Makers who were navigating the sector through the pandemic crisis, with entries from 86 countries.
The Resource Alliance is based in London and while starting as an International fund-raising group in 1981, its role has expanded to education and leadership training and to support collaboration in the Global Social Impact Sector.

Scarth said: "Some of the entries came from bigger teams and bigger budgets, but this was one woman's determination to carry on and make it happen. "It's critical work and Carla Geyser's entry showed that indomitable spirit to contribute and continue, and that's the heart of innovation driven by need."

Carla,

Thank you so much for the wonderful certificate. I will display it proudly. I enjoyed the collaring so much and everyone involved was amazing. So glad to hear enough money was raised to purchase two collars. Great news. Don't worry about the glitches, we're used to gremlins. It goes with the territory. I'll be on the lookout for the video. I know it will be worth any time we have to wait.
Thank you again for making all this possible.
